Learn Speed Reading in Your Home from Dr. Richard Feldman (Ph.D. Columbia University)

DEAR STUDENT & PARENT:

For more than 20 years, I've trained people to read faster and more effectively. Many of the people who I work with are high school and college students.

More and more, I am asked to present speed reading lessons to high school and college students in the privacy of their homes.

I can train you to read faster and remember more of what you read in just two 3-hour sessions in your home. I personally train you in speed reading – this is not a tape or CD.

As a result of your speed reading training, you will be able to:

- Read faster and recall more effectively for exams.
- Dramatically reduce your study time.
- Boost your performance on standardized tests: AP exams, SAT, ACT, LSAT, GMAT, GRE.
- Improve your concentration in textbooks and required readings.

Speed reading lessons are an investment in you and your future. I promise that, as a result of these lessons, you will be far more productive in print materials for the rest of your life.

Contact me today so that we can start you on the road to faster and more effective reading.

Sincerely,
Richard Feldman

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

- Who could benefit from these speed reading lessons?
High school and college students, and people who want to read faster and more effectively for work.
- Can I really increase my reading speed in only six hours of training?
Yes. Most students double their reading speed while maintaining or improving their understanding of what they read.
- Will I understand what I read at faster speeds?
Yes, your understanding will actually improve in most reading materials.
- How do I evaluate my progress?
You evaluate your reading speed and comprehension at the beginning of the first lesson through pre-tests. Throughout your training, you continue to track your progress through rate and comprehension tests.
- What speed reading techniques do I learn?
You learn a variety of speed reading techniques. Some of the techniques are for textbooks and other types of complex reading. Other techniques are for leisure reading: novels, newspapers, and magazines.
- Can I use speed reading techniques for standardized tests such as AP exams, SATs, ACTs, LSATs, GREs, GMATs?
Yes, the speed reading techniques you learn will help you read faster and perform better on these exams.
